FOREWORD

In preparing this genealogy the compiler has been successful in establishing for all of the Tappans and Toppans mentioned in the book, an unbroken pedigree to Robert Topham (I) of Linton, Yorkshire, England, who made his will in January, 1550, with whom the pedigree starts.

From Robert Topham there is given a father to son record back to John Topham of Pately Bridge, Yorkshire, England, whose will was dated May 1, 1403.

Such a record, unbroken, with every connection made, is most unusual in genealogical research.

CHAPTER I

THE ORIGIN OF THE FAMILY IN ENGLAND

The Tappan-Toppan family are descendants of Abraham Toppan, who came to this country from England in 1637, and settled in Newbury, Mass. The early English home of the family was situated among the hills of Yorkshire, where the family belonged to the landed gentry and held large landed possessions.

The name was originally written Topham or De Topham. The presence of this "de" in the name would seem to indicate that its possessor was of Norman descent. In the beginning of the 11th century, people in Normandy began to use surnames, and one of the commonest ways of doing this was to add the name of his home to a man's given name. Thus Henry, who owned the manor of Montfort, would be called Henry of Montfort or Henry de Montfort. The use of surnames was soon adopted in England, and the custom of assuming as such the names of towns and villages became so general that one may receive as sufficient proof of a family's antiquity the fact that they have lived and held property for several generations in a town of the same name as their own.

The family of Topham took their name from a place named Topham in the West Riding of Yorkshire, and public records and other documents bear the names of several people named Topham, Tophan, or Toppan, who were property holders in that part of Yorkshire. There are still several families of Tophams, among whom are Sir Christopher Topham and the Tophams of Holderness and Middleham Hall, who belong to the landed gentry and hold property today (1915) in Yorkshire. (See Burke's Landed Gentry and Burke's Visitation of Arms.)

The changes in the spelling of the Topham name are most interesting, although they are not so numerous as is the case with some names where as many as fifty-one different spellings are found. The changes in the spelling of the Topham name were caused by the inclination of those who spoke the name to clip the pronunciation of its syllables, and the desire of those who wrote the name to make the spelling conform to their pronunciation. Thus Topham, became Tophan, then Toppan, and finally Tappan, but notwithstanding the changes in pronunciation and spelling, it is in reality the same name and its possessors are all lineal descendants of the same Yorkshire ancestor.

Mr. Horatio Gates Somerby, the English genealogist, who traced the English ancestry of the American immigrant, Abraham Toppan, says:

> "The Topham family anciently possessed the greater part of the vale of Coverdale in Yorkshire, and Richard Topham (from whom there has been a continuous male succession) held the lordship and property of Caldburgh in Coverdale in the time of Henry V, 1420. The earliest mention of the family in the Registry of the Archbishop of York is found in the will of John Topham of Pately Bridge in the West Riding of Yorkshire, dated May 1, 1403. It divides his property between his wife Elizabeth and his sons and daughters but does not give their names."

Four generations of the ancestry of the American line have been traced in England.

(I) Robert Topham, with whom the pedigree commences, resided in Linton, near Pately Bridge, Yorkshire, England. He made his will in January, 1550, which was proved in the Archbishop's court at York in February of the same year. In this will he mentions his sons, Edward, Thomas, John, William and Robert; his daughter, Agnes; he leaves a legacy to Ellen Topham and appoints his son, Robert, executor.

(II) Thomas Topham, second son of Robert Topham (I) was of Arncliffe in Craven. He died in 1589. His will was dated April 24, 1588, and in it he desires to be buried in the church at Arncliffe. He mentions his wife, Isabel; sons, Edward, Anthony, Lawrence (from whom Sir William Topham and the Tophams of Holderness and Middleham Hall are descended), Henry and William; daughter, Isabella; and gives legacies to each of his grandchildren.

(III) Edward Topham, eldest son of Thomas Topham (II), was of Agelthorpe, near Linton. His pedigree is recorded in the College-of-Arms with armorial bearings. The Topham arms are described in Burke's Armory as follows: Arms: Argent, a chevron gules between three pewits' heads erased, sable. Crest: Two serpents vert entwined around a cross patée, fitchée, or. Motto: Cruce non prudentia, translated: "By the cross, not by wisdom". (The Tappan-Toppan coat-of-arms may be seen in the rooms of the Historical Society, Newburyport, Mass.) Edward and Margery Topham, or Tophan, had seven sons: 1. Henry, reader of Gray's Inn, London, Esq., of the parish of St. Martyne in the city of York. Will dated April 29, 1612. He married Elizabeth, daughter of John Darley, of Killinghunt. 2. Edward, counsellor of Gray's Inn, Esq., married Anne, daughter of John Scroope, of Danby. He had six children, of whom Francis married Mary, daughter of Sir Edward Paylor, Bart., and Henry was slain at Marston Moor, July 2, 1644. 3. Matthew, an alderman of the city of York; died in 1633. 4. William, mentioned below. 5. Christopher, of York, died 1626. 6. Godfrey. 7. Thomas.

(III) Anthony Topham, second son of Thomas Topham (II), was of Arncliffe. His will is dated July, 1623. He desires to be buried in the church of Arncliffe. He mentions his wife Agnes, son Anthony, daughter Isabel, and brother Lawrence.

(III) Lawrence Topham, Esq., third son of Thomas Topham (II) was of Calbridge in Coverham. His wife's name was Agnes (see Burke's Landed Gentry).

(IV) William Toppan (Tophan), fourth son of Edward Topham (III) of Agelthorpe, resided some time at Calbridge. Children of William and Cecelia Toppan were: 1. Abraham, mentioned below. 2. Cecelia (Cicely), baptized February 27, 1608. 3. Isaac, died January, 1612.

CHAPTER II

ABRAHAM TOPPAN (V), THE AMERICAN IMMIGRANT

(V) Abraham Toppan, son of William Toppan (IV), of Calbridge, in the parish of Coverham, was baptized April 10, 1606. He lived for some time in Yarmouth, county of Norfolk. He married Susanna Taylor, who was born in the year 1607, and died March 20, 1689. Her mother, Elizabeth Taylor, inherited considerable property from a second husband, Mr. John Goodale, of Yarmouth, whose will is dated 1625. In the Public Record Office in London are still kept lists of those persons who were allowed to leave England from 1634 to 1638. On the "Register of the names of such persons who are twenty-one years and upwards, and have license to passe into forraigne parts from March 1637 to the 29th of September, by vertu of a Commission to Mr. Thomas Mayhew, gentleman", are the names of Abraham Toppan, aged thirty-one; Susanna, his wife, aged thirty, with their children, Peter and Elizabeth, and one "mayd" servant, Anne Goodin, aged eighteen years, and Elizabeth Taylor-Goodale, his wife's mother, May the 10th, 1637. In the year 1637 Abraham Toppan, his wife, two children, his wife's mother and servant, Anne Goodin, sailed from Yarmouth, May 10, in the ship Mary Ann for New England.

He was admitted into the township of Newbury, Massachusetts, October 16, 1637, and at various times in the following year, grants of land were made him, and he built his dwelling house near the meetinghouse, a few rods north of the house of Captain Richard Adams, and between that house and another afterwards owned by the heirs of the late Joseph Toppan, a descendant. The record of his admission to the township reads as follows: "Abraham Toppan being licensed by John Endicott, Esq. to live in this jurisdiction, was received into the town of Newbury as an inhabitant thereof, and hath here promised under his hand to be subject to any lawful order that shall be made by the towne. October 16, 1637. Abraham Toppan." He served several years as selectman of Newbury. He made sundry voyages to the Barbadoes, of which one or two were profitable. He brought home sugar, cotton, wool, and molasses with great profit. His will is dated June 20, 1670. In it he says he has done for his son Peter more than he can for the other children. He died November 5, 1672, aged 66 years, in the house on "Toppan Lane" which he had built in 1670 for his son Jacob. The house is still standing (1915). It has been owned and occupied by his descendants without interruption for six generations. The present owner is Roland W. Toppan, who has restored and greatly beautified the old house. The widow of Abraham Toppan died March 20, 1689, aged 82. Her mother, Mrs. Goodale, died at Newbury, April 8, 1647.

The children of Abraham and Susanna (Taylor) Toppan were: 1. Peter, born in England, 1634, mentioned below. 2. Elizabeth, born in England, October 16, 1635, married, March 21, 1657, Samuel Mighill, of Rowley. 3. Abraham, born in Newbury, 1644, and died February, 1703/4. He married November 9, 1670, Ruth Pike, daughter of John Pike; they had three children, Mary, Hannah and Joseph, all of whom died young at Woodbridge, N. J. 4. Jacob, born December 24, 1645, married (first) August 24, 1670, Hannah Sewall, sister of Judge Samuel Sewall. She died November 11, 1699. He married (second) Mrs. Hannah (Fessenden) Sewall. 5. Susanna, born June 13, 1649, in Newbury. 6. John, born in Newbury, April 23, 1651, married (first), September 3, 1688, Martha Brown; married (second), 1717, Ruth Heard. He died December 26, 1723. 7. Isaac, born in Newbury, married (first), September 29, 1669, Hannah Kent; married (second), March 27, 1691, Mary March. He removed with his brother, Abraham, to Woodbridge, N. J. and has many descendants in that State, at Liberty, Ind. and in the Middle West.

CHAPTER III

DR. PETER TOPPAN (VI), AND HIS DESCENDANTS

(VI) Peter Toppan, M. D., eldest son of Abraham Toppan (V), was born in England, 1634, and was brought by his parents to New England in 1637. He married, April 3, 1661, Jane Batt, daughter of Mr. Christopher and Anne Batt. Peter Toppan was a physician at Newbury. He belonged to one of the five companies into which the sheep owners of Newbury were divided and was the third largest owner, having eighty sheep. "He traded at sea." In 1697 he built for himself a house which is still (1915) standing in Newbury on High Street near the corner of Marlboro Street. With its quaint gambrel roof and time-blackened exterior, it is an impressive landmark on the broad highway which connects Newburyport and Boston. It bears an inscription giving the date of its erection and the name of its builder. Dr. Peter Toppan died November 3, 1707, from the effects of a fall. His eldest sons, Peter and Samuel, were administrators, appointed March 11, 1708. He had a negro slave valued at thirty pounds. The children of Dr. Peter and Jane (Batt) Toppan were: 1. (IX) Benjamin Tappan, eldest son of Rev. Benjamin Tappan (VIII), was born at Manchester, Mass., October 21, 1747. He was married at the age of twenty-three, on October 22, 1770, to Sarah, daughter of Lieut. William Homes. Mrs. Tappan was a grandniece of Benjamin Franklin. She was a woman of great intelligence and remarkable piety. She was born in Boston, Mass., January 2, 1748. An account of her life and extracts from her letter may be found in the "Memoir of Mrs. Sarah Tappan." In this Memoir is found the following account of a change made by Benjamin Tappan in the spelling of his name: "Benjamin Tappan spelled his name Tappen, to conform to the orthography of the families of this name, residing in the State of New York, while his father, Rev. Benjamin Tappan, spelled it Toppan. His father and brother David proposed to him that if he would alter the last syllable to pan, they would spell the first syllable tap. Rev. Christopher Toppan threatened to disinherit his son Edmund for altering his name to Tappan, and he discontinued writing it thus." Benjamin Tappan resided in Northampton, Mass., and his standing in the community is indicated by a once familiar saying in that town: "to be considered among the first families, one must own a piece of meadow land, must have a pew in the broad aisle of the old church, and must deal at Mr. Benjamin Tappan's store." He was a patriot of the Revolution, marching with other volunteers from Northampton to meet the forces of Burgoyne at Saratoga. Mr. Tappan died January 29, 1831, aged 83. His wife died March 26, 1826. The children of Benjamin and Sarah (Homes) Tappan were: 1. (X) John Tappan, son of Benjamin Tappan (IX), was born in Northampton, Mass., July 26, 1781. In early life he entered upon a mercantile career, obtaining employment in one of the large Boston houses. In 1805 his employers sent him to purchase goods in England and when returning to America on the ship Jupiter, he suffered shipwreck. On April 6 the vessel encountered fields of ice so extensive that it was impossible to escape them. At midnight the ship struck upon a piece of ice which penetrated its starboard bow. Immediately the two boats were launched, thirty-nine people embarking in the long boat and eight in the yawl. The ship went down with twenty-seven souls on board. The people in the boats were in peril for three days and nights, suffering much from fatigue and cold. With his pocket-knife, Mr. Tappan fashioned a fork from a piece of oar, and with it caught fish to sustain their lives. Also his large silk handkerchief was waved from an oar to attract a passing ship to their rescue. Fork and handkerchief are to-day in the possession of his family. Passing vessels picked up the two boats and three weeks later landed the shipwrecked passengers at Marblehead. Later in life Mr. Tappan became a prominent and wealthy Boston merchant, and was distinguished for his active benevolence. For more than twenty years he was president of the American Tract Society and was an officer of the Foreign Missionary Society. Like his brothers, Arthur and Lewis, he was a promoter of the anti-slavery reform. In 1843 he was sent to London by the United States Government as delegate to the International Convention of Peace. He died at Boston, March 25, 1871. John Tappan married September 30, 1805, Sarah, daughter of Samuel Salisbury of Boston. Mrs. Tappan died August 28, 1839. (XI) Samuel Salisbury Tappan, son of John Tappan (X), was born in Boston, Mass., September 2, 1809, and died in Philadelphia, Pa., November 25, 1890. He was always known by his middle name, Salisbury. When a young man he showed symptoms of lung trouble, and when he went to college, it was thought best to send him South to the College of William and Mary. He made the trip to Virginia on horseback. He was careful to say no word concerning Slavery nor exhibit any interest in the subject. but after a little time he was ordered to "Leave the State within twenty-four hours" under penalty of severe trouble. The only reason given was that his name was Tappan. Returning North, he studied medicine and for some time was an assistant practitioner at Bloomingdale Insane Asylum. On deciding to enter the ministry, he went to Andover Theological Seminary. He was ordained in 1835. He held pastorates at Winterport, Me., at Bridgewater, Mass., at Vineyard Haven (then Holmes Hole), and at Conway, N. H. Because of throat trouble, he was obliged in 1852 to give up speaking in public save occasionally. He resided afterwards in Providence, R. I., until 1887, and then removed to Philadelphia, where he resided until his death in 1890.

While at Andover, he met Miss Eveline L. Stearns, who was a first cousin of Prof. Fiske of Amherst College. The engagement ring was given on Mt. Holyoke. The marriage occurred November 4, 1835. Mrs. Tappan died March 27, 1850. His second wife was Hannah Dana, whom he married January 14, 1851.

(XI) William Henry Tappan, son of Ebenezer Tappan (X), was born in Manchester, Mass., October 30, 1821, and died January 22, 1907. He went to Oregon in 1849, and in 1854 was a member of the first territorial council of Washington Territory. He was connected with the Indian Department when the treaties were made for the purchase of what is now the eastern part of Oregon, Washington, Idaho and a portion of Montana. He returned to Manchester in 1876, and served as a member of the Massachusetts Legislature in 1881 and of the State Senate, 1885-6. He was the author of a "History of Manchester". He married (first) April 7, 1857, Margaret Anderson, who died April 11, 1867. He married (second) April 2, 1881, Augusta E., daughter of W. E. Wheaton of Manchester. No children.

(XI) Lewis Northey Tappan, son of Col. Eben Tappan (X), was born in Manchester, Mass., June 25, 1831. He was in business some years in Boston. In 1857 he went to Kansas and was secretary of the Senate under the Topeka Constitution. He was one of the Fort Scott Treaty Commissioners and one of the fifteen armed men who captured the box containing the altered election returns at Lecompton, the discovery of which resulted in the overthrow of the pro-slavery party in Kansas. In 1859 Mr. Tappan joined the Colorado pioneers. He was a member of Gov. Gilpin's council and one of Gov. Cummings' staff. He organized the first Sunday School in Colorado, started the first smelting works and opened the first store in the territory. He was one of the three first white men who entered the locality now known as the "Garden of the Gods," giving it its name. In the early settlement of Colorado he crossed the plains seven times in stages. Returning to Manchester, Mass., Mr. Tappan was elected to the legislature in 1877. At the time of his death, he was engaged in business in Leadville, Colo., where he owned a valuable property, and was connected with mining interests. One day he was down the shaft with Mr. Fuller, who was anxious to go up in the bucket. Mr. Tappan preceded him after cautioning him not to look down after entering the bucket. Mr. Tappan ascended safely and was awaiting Mr. Fuller. To his horror he saw him fall when near the top of the shaft. The shock to Mr. Tappan was so great that he never recovered from it, and death ensued from nervous prostration, February 25, 1880. Mr. Tappan was a man of public spirit, conscientiousness, and integrity, and was much respected by his fellow citizens.

Lewis Northey Tappan married November 15, 1866, Elizabeth Sanford, daughter of Giles Sanford of Albany, N. Y., who was born November 27, 1841, and died June 6, 1882.

Children: 1. Sanford, born January 13, 1869, died January 13, 1869. 2. Sanford, born June 7, 1870. 3. Lewis Hooper, born September 12, 1873. 4. Blanche, born August 12, 1876, died in Boston, September 28, 1884.

(XII) Sanford Tappan, son of Lewis N. Tappan (XI), was born June 7, 1870, died March 22, 1900. He married in 1894, Elizabeth Slade Colman. Child: 1. Elizabeth, born April, 1895.

(XII) Lewis Hooper Tappan, son of Lewis N. Tappan (XI), was born September 12, 1873. He was educated in the schools of Boston, and is a graduate of the Mass. Institute of Technology. He is in the bond business, and in 1915 resides in Watertown, Mass. He married January 29, 1898, Luella Barragar, who was born July 2, 1876. Children: 1. Elizabeth Louise, born November 13, 1898. 2. Deborah, born August 5, 1901. 3. Lewis Sanford, born December 5, 1904.

(X) Major Benjamin Tappan, second son of Ebenezer Tappan (IX), was born September 30, 1793, at Manchester, Mass., and died August 2, 1876. Mr. Tappan reached the advanced age of 82 years and 10 months. A few days before his death, he related with great clearness the story of an encounter in 1814 between a British man-of-war and his father's schooner Nancy on which he was a sailor. The Nancy was returning to Manchester with a cargo of molasses, sugar, lumber, etc. Suddenly a cannon-shot was fired across her bows from a vessel which was quickly recognized as a British man-of-war. To avoid capture the schooner was beached, but the British sent men ashore who set the ship and cargo afire. Mr. Tappan had made his way to Manchester to summon help. Col. Eben Tappan and men from Manchester arrived in time to extinguish the fire. They drove away the British, killing one of them and wounding several others.

Benjamin Tappan married April 4, 1816, Sarah Story, who died June 1, 1865. The children of Benjamin and Sarah (Story) Tappan were: 1. Henry Story, born at Manchester, February 18, 1816. 2. Elizabeth, born August 26, 1818. 3. Amos, born January 30, 1821, died September 9, 1821.

(XI) Henry Story Tappan, son of Benjamin Tappan (X), was born February 18, 1817, at Manchester, Mass., and died in 1891. He was a cabinet maker. He married Elizabeth Eldridge at Beverly, the marriage intentions being recorded November 23, 1846. Child: 1. Benjamin West, born November 15, 1848, died in 1851.

(X) Capt. Samuel Forster Tappan, third son of Ebenezer Tappan (IX), was born July 18, 1795, at Manchester, Mass., and died February 5, 1864. He married December 2, 1827, Nancy Smith. Children: 1. Samuel Forster, born June 29, 1831. 2. Mary Smith, born August 2, 1833. 3. James Marshall, born July 23, 1835. 4. Sarah Frances, born December 9, 1839. 5. Anne Smith, born January 3, 1844.

(XI) Samuel Forster Tappan, elder son of Samuel Forster Tappan (X), was born June 29, 1831. He received a common school education, and then went to work in the cabinet makers' shops of his native town, learning the chair maker's trade. He then found employment for some time in Boston, and while there, was incensed at the sight of the negro refugees being sent South. He determined to do all in his power to free the slaves. He received encouragement from such men as Wendell Phillips, William Lloyd Garrison, Theodore Parker, and others, and in 1854, when but 23 years of age, went to Kansas with the earliest company of Massachusetts immigrants. Here he took a most active part in making Kansas a free State, serving as secretary of the House of Representatives and of the two Constitutional Conventions. In 1860 Mr. Tappan removed to Colorado, where he was commissioned captain of the First Colorado Volunteers. Later he became colonel of a regiment of cavalry who held the frontier against Indian attacks and rebel raids. He was afterwards appointed a member of the Indian Peace Commission with Gens. Sherman, Harney and others, who removed the Indian tribes out of Colorado to the Indian Territory, and the Sioux from Wyoming, Colorado, and Nebraska to a reservation in Dakota. After this he entered the employ of the Oregon Steamship and Railroad Company to systematize and encourage emigration to Oregon, and represented Oregon at the Centennial Exposition in Philadelphia, after which he went to California. In 1883 he organized an Indian industrial school in Nebraska, which became very successful, and he acted as its superintendent for several years until removed by President Cleveland. He then went to Washington, D. C., where he resided until his death, January 6, 1913. Col. Tappan was always a man of letters, having been editor and journalist, and having acted for many years as correspondent for all the principal papers of New York, St. Louis, Chicago, Cincinnati, and other cities. One of the most interesting incidents of his life was his meeting with Henry M. Stanley, who afterwards became known as the great African explorer. Mr. Stanley was at this time a green and obscure youth. Mr. Tappan gave him a start and put him in touch with the great New York papers for which Mr. Tappan was correspondent. Mr. Tappan was buried in the National Cemetery at Arlington with military honors.

(X) Israel Forster Tappan, youngest son of Ebenezer Tappan (IX), was born November 28, 1797, at Manchester, Mass., and died August 15, 1884. He married July 17, 1822, Deborah Forster, born February 2, 1801, died June 28, 1890. Children: 1. Israel Forster, born September 1, 1823, died in 1883. 2. Benjamin Forster, born August 6, 1827. 3. Augustine, born April 20, 1829, died in 1905. 4. Abigail Smith, born May 27, 1831. 5. Edward, born June 26, 1834, died in 1904. 6. Bethiah Forster, born July 19, 1837. 7. Jane Forster, born July 19, 1837.

(VIII) Joseph Tappan, youngest son of Samuel Toppan (VII), was born January 6, 1723. He married Anne Grow of York, Me. Children: 1. Joseph, born 1759. 2. Abigail, married Samuel Donnell.

(IX) Joseph Tappan, only son of Joseph Tappan (VIII), was born in 1759, and died March 2, 1842. He married August 9, 1828, Patience Marsh. Children: 1. Joseph Little, born August 9, 1829, in Newbury. 2. Anne Grow, born January 6, 1831, in Newbury.

PART III—REV. CHRISTOPHER TOPPAN (VII), AND HIS DESCENDANTS

(VII) Rev. Christopher Toppan, A. M., D. D., youngest son of Dr. Peter Toppan (VI), was born in Newbury, December 15, 1671. He graduated at Harvard College in 1691; was ordained September 9, 1696, pastor of the First Church in Newbury. Coffin in his "History of Newbury" says: "Dr. Toppan was a man of talents, energy, and decision of character, and 'would speak his mind'. A specimen of this latter trait may be seen on page 213. Other instances might be given, but I shall mention only one. A Mr.—— and his wife once presented a child for baptism. Not having confidence in the man's sincerity, he addressed the congregation in these words, while performing the rite, 'I baptize this child wholly on the woman's account.' "

Not only was Dr. Toppan a theologian and classical scholar, but he was a skilful physician and surgeon, having inherited from his father a love for the science of medicine. It is said that he asked no fees for his services as physician. His sense of justice is shown by his sympathy for the Indians. In a letter to Judge Sewall, he says: "The Indians should have convenient lands allowed them for themselves and their posterity as they were the first proprietors of the lands in this country." Much interest has been aroused by his correspondence with Rev. Cotton Mather regarding a double-headed snake which was supposed to have been seen in Newbury. Mr. Mather, always interested in the supernatural, wrote to his friend Mr. Toppan, inquiring about the matter and received the following answer:

"Concerning the amphisbena, as soon as I received your commands I made diligent enquiry of several persons who saw it after it was dead, but they could give me no assurance of its having two heads." Having finally found some one who affirmed that the snake really had two heads, he adds in his letter: —"This person is so credible that I can as much believe him as if I had seen it myself. He tells me of another man that examined it as he did, but I cannot yet meet him.

"Postscript. Before ensealing I spoke with the other man who examined the amphisbena, (and he also is a man of credit) and he assures me that it had really two heads, one at each end, two mouths, two stings or tongues, and so forth.

"Sir, I have nothing more to add but that he may have a remembrance in your prayers, who is

Sir, your most humble servant,

Christopher Toppan."

The story is the subject of a poem by Whittier entitled "The Double-headed Snake of Newbury."

Rev. Christopher Toppan died July 23, 1747. On his monument in the graveyard opposite the church on High Street, in Newbury is the following inscription: "Here lies buried the body of the Rev. Christopher Toppan, Master of Arts, fourth Pastor of the First Church in Newbury; a Gentleman of good learning, conspicuous for Piety and Virtue, shining both by his Doctrine and Life, skilled and greatly improved in the Practice of Physick and Surgery who deceased July 23, 1747, in the 76th year of his age, and 51st of his Pastoral Office."

She has written a large number of valuable books on literary subjects, mostly for young people. She and her mother reside (1915) at Worcester, Mass.

(XII) Ruth Ann Tappan, daughter of Jonathan Tappan (XI), born in Sandwich, N. H., April 3, 1826, died February 24, 1898; married March 30, 1845, Stephen Vittum, born September 10, 1817, in Sandwich, son of Stephen Vittum. The immigrant ancestor of the Vittum family was William Vittum, who came from France to Hampton N. H., about 1690. He brought with him a wife and infant son. He was a Huguenot, and fled from the persecution which was then raging in his own country. The Huguenots (or French Protestants) were the Puritans of France and were noted for their austere virtues and the singular purity of their lives. William Vittum had three children, but only one, William 2nd, the son who came from France, married. This William 2nd had three sons and three daughters. Only one son, William 3rd, married. William 2nd and William 3rd both served in the colonial army in 1745. When the original charter of Sandwich, N. H., was granted in 1763, both these men are mentioned as proprietors. In 1768, William 3rd settled in the wilderness which is now Sandwich, his family being the seventh to make a home in the township. He was the father of five sons and four daughters. From him are descended all the Vittums of the country and probably all in the world, as the spelling of the family name was changed when the first Vittum removed from France. The eldest of his sons, William 4th, was a revolutionary soldier. Another son was Stephen Page Vittum, born at Hampton, N. H., in 1762, and died at Sandwich, N. H., in 1833. The son of Stephen Page Vittum was Stephen Vittum, born in Sandwich in 1787, died in 1873. This Stephen Vittum was the father of Naomi Vittum, the first wife of Daniel Tappan (XI), and of the Stephen Vittum who married Ruth Ann Tappan. (X) Charles Toppan, son of Edward Toppan (IX), was born at Newburyport, Mass., February 10, 1796. The life of Mr. Toppan was most intimately connected with the rise and development of banknote-engraving in the United States. He early developed great aptitude and love for art, and in 1814 entered the note-engraving house of Draper, Murray & Fair-man in Philadelphia. He soon became noted for the accuracy of his work and the rapidity of his execution. In 1819 he accompanied Messrs. Perkins and Fairman to Europe, expecting to obtain the work of engraving the notes of the Bank of England.

The superior excellence of their work was generally acknowledged. After an absence in Europe of several years, during which he witnessed the funeral services of George III, the coronation of George IV, and the rejoicing in Paris over the birth of the Count of Chambord, Mr. Toppan returned to the United States, and in 1828 recommenced his career as a banknote engraver in Philadelphia. For thirty years, the firm of which he was the head, maintained the highest rank for beauty and excellence of work. In 1858, the various banknote-engraving houses of the country were united under the name of the American Bank Note Company with Mr. Toppan as president. After fully organizing the new corporation, he resigned the presidency in 1860.

He was a member of various societies, and on terms of friendship with Irving, Bryant, March, Sully and other literati and artists.

In his views, he was broad and liberal; conscientious in the discharge of duty; courteous in manner; social and cheerful in disposition, and very generous, especially to young artists, many of whom he befriended. Being an excellent judge of art, he gathered round him a choice collection of paintings. His love for the beautiful in art and nature did not diminish with advancing years. Only a few days before his decease, he was busy with his pencil, sketching the picturesque scenes in the neighborhood of Florence, Italy, where he died November 20, 1874.

He married July 17, 1826, Laura Ann Noxon, daughter of Dr. Robert Noxon of Poughkeepsie, N. Y., and granddaughter of Capt. Lazarus Ruggles of the Revolutionary Army, from Milford, Conn.

Paul Tappan resided (1914) at 26 Browne Street, Brookline, Mass.

(IX) Weare Tappan, son of John Toppan (VIII), was born at East Kingston, N. H., March 3, 1790. He was fitted for college at Atkinson and Exeter Academies; was graduated from Dartmouth College, and studied law with Judge Ellis of Claremont, N. H. He settled in Newport, N. H., and began the practice of his profession. He shortly removed to Bradford, N. H., and opened an office where he continued in the practice of the law until his death. Weare Tappan was a man of note and ability, prominent as a lawyer, and a main pillar in the community in which he lived. Taking an early position on the subject of slavery, he was a pioneer in the cause. His house was the rendezvous of the anti-slavery lecturer and the home of the fugitive slave. He lived until after the close of the Civil War, and saw the fulfillment of his prayer that the curse of slavery might be blotted out, and the authority of the government restored. He died April 6, 1868, at the age of 78 years.

He married Lucinda Atkins of Claremont, N. H. She lived but a few months after the death of her husband. The Concord Monitor, in recording her death, paid the following tribute: "The deceased was a fine specimen of the old school of ladies, who maintain a lively interest in the present, which added to her great intelligence, rare conversational powers, keen insight of persons, a strong, moral nature, and a catholic spirit bounded by no creed or color, made her presence a benediction, and her life a pleasant recollection." The children of Weare and Lucinda (Atkins) Tappan were: 1. Mason Weare, born October 20, 1817, mentioned below. 2. Caroline Lucinda, born October 7, 1819, married Daniel W. Carr of Bradford. 3. Elizabeth Ann, born October 25, 1821, married Joseph K. Lund, of Bradford. 4. Mary Jane, born October 28, 1823. 5. Helen Maria, born April 16, 1826, married Silas Wilkins of Bradford. 6. Charles Carroll, born December 6, 1828, a United States mail agent at Concord, N. H., married Frances T. Flanders of Claremont, N. H., January 14, 1852. Their daughter Helen, married E. B. S. Sanborn, living at Franklin, N. H. (1915).

(X) Mason Weare Tappan, son of Weare Tappan (IX), was born at Newport, N. H., October 20, 1817. The following year his father removed to Bradford, N. H. Mason W. Tappan was educated at Kimball Union Academy, studied law, was admitted to the bar in 1841, and acquired a large practice. He was early identified with the Whig party and afterward was a Freesoiler. He served in the legislature in 1853-5. He was elected to Congress, and served from December 3, 1855 to March 3, 1861. He was a member of the special committee of thirty-three on the rebellious states.

On February 5, 1861, when a report was submitted recommending that the provisions of the constitution should be obeyed rather than amended, he made a patriotic speech in support of the government. Mr. Tappan was one of the earliest to enlist in the volunteer army, and was colonel of the 1st N. H. Regiment from May until August, 1861. Afterwards he resumed the practice of law and held the office of attorney-general of New Hampshire for ten years preceding his death. He was a delegate to the Philadelphia Loyalists' Convention of 1866 and presided over the New Hampshire Republican convention September 14, 1886. In the presidential election of 1872, he supported his life-long friend, Horace Greeley. He died in Bradford, N. H., October 25, 1886. Of Colonel Tappan, as a man and a citizen, a neighbor wrote as follows: "Mr. Tappan's kindness to the poor and afflicted, his fidelity as a friend, his sensitiveness of heart, and his honor in his profession are proverbial among his most intimate acquaintances."

Mason Weare Tappan married (first) May 2, 1848, Emeline M. Worth; married (second) June 4, 1872, Mary E. (Benton) Jenkins, daughter of Hugh Benton of Guildhall, Vt.; married (third) May 8, 1877, Imogene B. Atwood, daughter of Moses Atwood of Lisbon, N. H. Child by first marriage: 1. Frank Mason, born February 1, 1850. Child by third marriage: 2. Helen Lucinda, born February 3, 1884, married June 16, 1904, Harold Dustin Goodenough, son of the late Henry Bradford Goodenough, of Brighton, Mass. They have one son, Mason Tappan Goodenough, born March 31, 1910. Their oldest child, Helen Elizabeth Goodenough, was born July 3, 1907, and died July 6, 1907.

(XI) Frank Mason Tappan, son of Mason W. Tappan (X), was born at Bradford, N. H., February 1, 1850; died at Bradford April 11, 1899. He married June 24, 1872, Ellen M. (Paige) Warner, daughter of Bard P. Paige of Bradford, N. H. Child: 1. Arthur Weare, born at Bradford, October 16, 1876.

CHAPTER VI

ISAAC TOPPAN (VI), AND HIS DESCENDANTS

(VI) Isaac Toppan, the youngest son of Abraham Toppan (V), removed to Woodbridge, Middlesex County, N. J., with his brother, Abraham Toppan, under the auspices of the colony in charge of Rev. John Woodbridge, in the summer of 1665. He married (first) September 29, 1669, Hannah Kent; married (second) March 27, 1691, Mary March. He had by the first marriage: 1. Isaac, born September 20, 1673. 2. Elizabeth, born January 26, 1676. 3. Jacob, born June 12, 1678. 4. David, born November 2, 1680. 5. John, born March 16, 1685. 6. Hannah, born December 23, 1686. By the second marriage, he had: 7. Mary, born November 17, 1693. 8. Benjamin, born ye 23rd of ——. 9. Abraham, born May 18, 1695. All these children were born in Woodbridge, N. J.

(VII) Isaac Tappan, son of Isaac Toppan (VI), born September 20, 1673, married Nancy Wilkinson of Woodbridge, N. J. Their children were: 1. David. 2. James. 3. Abraham. 4. Isaac. 5. Benjamin. 6. Sarah. 7. Huldah.

(VIII) James Tappan, the second son of Isaac Tappan (VII), was born in Woodbridge, Middlesex County, N. J., in 1750. He was a farmer and a well-to-do man of his class and time. He married Nancy Dunham, daughter of John and Keziah Dunham of Westfield, Essex, now Union County, N. J. After marriage, he made his home for some time in Woodbridge, and then removed with his family to Wyoming County, Pennsylvania, in the hope of bettering his fortune. He soon found that his change of residence did not bring the added prosperity for which he had hoped, and he returned to his old home in New Jersey. Shortly after his return, the War of the Revolution broke out. During these troublous times, he and his brothers bravely bore their part in the great struggle for independence, and fought in many of the principal battles of the war. He died December 9, 1809. His grave is next to that of his brother Captain Tappan in the Presbyterian burial ground in Woodbridge. Nancy, his wife, removed with her children to the State of Ohio in October, 1814, and died at the home of her son, Benjamin Tappan, April 26, 1826, aged 75 years. She was buried, as was her daughter Phoebe, in the ground now converted into a public park opposite the Exposition buildings in Cincinnati, Ohio. The children of James and Nancy (Dunham) Tappan were: 1. Sarah, born January 4, 1773. She married March 2, 1795, Captain Samuel Bailey. By this marriage they had three children, all of whom lived to have families of their own. She lived in New Providence, Union County, N. J. Captain Samuel Bailey died May 8, 1824. His wife, Sarah (Tappan) Bailey, died March 17, 1859, at an advanced age of 86 years, at her son Jonathan's residence, Newark, N. J., and was buried in the Presbyterian burial ground, New Providence, N. J. 2. Marsh Tappan, born September 9, 1776, died at his sister's home in New Providence, N. J., August 21, 1795, in his 20th year, and was buried in the Presbyterian burial ground in New Providence. He died without issue. 3. Keziah Tappan, born 1778, migrated to the Territory of Ohio with her brother, Samuel Tappan; they went out under the auspices of William Ludlow, who was a surveyor, in the year 1793. They first located in Lebanon, Warren County, Ohio, near the Red Lion. She married in 1798, Jonathan Crane, who was a native of New Providence, N. J. They again emigrated to the western portion of Indiana in the year 1832, and finally settled at Stone Bluff, Fountain County, Ind., where they raised a large family. Keziah (Tappan) Crane died January 28, 1860, at the age of 82; her husband, Jonathan Crane, died October 20, 1863, in his 88th year. They were both buried in the Osborn Prairie burial ground near Stone Bluff, Fountain County, Ind. 4. Samuel Tappan was born in Woodbridge, N. J., April 14, 1781. In 1793, when but twelve years of age, he left his father's home in New Jersey, and with his sister Keziah, departed for the wilderness in the territories of Ohio and Indiana. They travelled westward under charge of William Ludlow, son of the New Jersey General Ludlow of Revolutionary fame. William Ludlow became a United States surveyor, and laid out the public lands of Ohio. This was the time when large numbers of enterprising young men were seeking an opening for life in the West, and Samuel Tappan was well fitted to pioneer into a new country. He was wonderfully powerful in physique, and was mentally endowed with great energy and quickness of perception. In every moral and political issue, he stood firmly on the side of justice and progress. His hospitality was unbounded, and he was exceedingly kind to the poor and needy. He married January 11, 1810, Catharine Dyke. They finally made their home in Liberty, Union County, Ind., and here reared thirteen children. Samuel Tappan died November 21, 1874, aged ninety-three years. His wife survived him nearly two years, and died at the age of eighty-two. They are both buried in the New Cemetery in Liberty, Ind. 5. Elizabeth Tappan migrated to Ohio. She was married November, 1808, to William Livingstone, a native of Pennsylvania. She died October 20, 1868. William Livingstone died September, 1825, in Liberty, Ind. They left only one son, Isaac Livingstone, who survives his parents at Edinburgh, Johnson County, Ind. 6. Jane Tappan, was one of the members of the family that departed for the Western Country. She was married at the time to Henry Rogers of Westfield, Essex (now Union) County, N. J. She had a large family, the descendants of whom are scattered throughout the Western States. She was married October 10, 1801; died May 17, 1820. Her husband died June 28, 1837. 7. Benjamin Tappan was born October 11, 1790. He was one of the household who departed for Cincinnati, Ohio. He was 24 years old when he left for the West. He established himself in business as a mason-builder in Cincinnati, Ohio, and was located on Central Avenue, in said city, opposite Sixth Street Market. He died August 7, 1850, aged 59 years, being of the same age as his father was at his death, and was buried in his family lot in the large cemetery near Cincinnati. His son and daughters still reside in Cincinnati, with their families. 8. Isaac Tappan was born February 11, 1792. He followed the family westwardly and located in Liberty, Union County, Ind. He married Eleanor Dunham. They had a large family, who are mostly located in Madison County, Ind. Isaac Tappan died February 6, 1851, aged 59 years, of the same age as his father, and brother, Benjamin Tappan. He was buried in the old cemetery at Liberty, Ind. His wife died April 26, 1868, aged 63 years. She was buried in Madison County, Ind. 9. Phoebe Tappan followed with the rest of the family to the State of Ohio. She married Thomas Smith, of the State of Maine, October 17, 1813. They had a family of two children. She died in Cincinnati, Ohio, April 7, 1820. Her husband was drowned on a visit to his native State, Maine, from which he had migrated. 10. Susan Tappan was born July 19, 1795. She accompanied her mother, brothers and sisters to the western country. In consequence of the climate not agreeing with her, she returned to New York City. In the process of time she married December 30, 1830, Peter Peyto Good, son of Peter and Agnes (Leckie) Good, of Bocking, Essex County, England. They lived in Plainfield, Union County, N. J. By this marriage there were two children, one daughter, Agnes Good, born March 4, 1832, died December 3, 1833; and one son, Peter Peyto Good, born August 21, 1833. This son, Judge Good of the New Jersey bar, compiled the records of his mother's branch of the Tappan family. Susan (Tappan) Good died in Plainfield, N. J., on the afternoon of June 22, 1865, in the 70th year of her age. Her husband departed this life August 19, 1875, in the 86th year of his age. They are both buried in Greenwood Cemetery on Cherry Avenue, Lot No. 10531, Kings County, Long Island, N. Y.

(IX) Samuel Tappan, son of James Tappan (VIII), born April 14, 1781, was married to Catharine Dyke, daughter of Frederick and Ruth Dyke, January 11, 1810, by Hugh Long, Esq., at the Red Lion, Warren County, Ohio. He lived at Liberty, Union County, Ind. He died November 21, 1874, aged 93 years. His wife, Catharine (Dyke) Tappan, born May 14, 1794, died August 19, 1876. The children of Samuel and Catharine (Dyke) Tappan were: 1. Frederick Dyke, born September 6, 1812. 2. Sarah Ann, born February 14, 1814; married May 22, 1865, Zachariah D. Wetzel, son of Daniel and Jane Wetzel. They lived in Liberty, Union County, Ind. 3. James Madison, born January 25, 1816, mentioned below. 4. Benjamin Franklin, born January 1, 1818, mentioned below. 5. Ruth Hariet, born February 27, 1820, married August 21, 1845, Peter Coughflan, son of John and Anna Coughflan. They lived in Liberty, Union County, Ind. They had five children. 6. William Wesley, born February 7, 1822, mentioned below. 7. George H., born January 13, 1824, mentioned below. 8. Phoebe Jane, born February 18, 1826, died April 11, 1874. She married June, 1847, John McAnerney, son of John and Mary (Faley) McAnerney. They lived at Cambridge City, Wayne County, Ind. 9. Elizabeth C., born February 24, 1828, married November, 1856, Benjamin Keelor, son of Thomas and Elizabeth Keelor. 10. Mary M., born January 1, 1830, died September 11, 1851. 11. APPENDIX

FAMILY HISTORY

An extract from a speech by Judge Peter P. Good, delivered at the Reunion of the descendants of the Tappan family at the Osborn Prairie Church, Stone Bluff, Fountain County, Indiana, September 20, 1883.

This large family, of which we are, related to one another and to the great social structure of government, has not been without influence through the many generations that we have existed. Our ancestors came from Yarmouth, England, in the year 1637, to Massachusetts, in a period of English history particularly noted for its struggle for religious freedom. The Tappans were by no means inferior agents towards accomplishing these great results for spiritual liberty of conscience. A branch of this family were members of the colony that came to Woodbridge, N. J., under the auspices of the Rev. John Woodbridge, in the summer of 1665. They were the pioneers of the advancing western civilization, where their influences were felt with this infant colony in New Jersey. They grew with the growth of the character of the State in which they were conspicuously noted in their day and generation.

The American Revolution of 1776 derived much of its support from them in alienating the colonies from the mother country. The history of those stirring events shows that our ancestors were ever on the alert in advancing the institution of a liberal government for the people. The next great epoch in their history was the migration of our parents, of whom we are the immediate descendants, to the Territories of Ohio and Indiana in the years 1793 and in October, 1814. These families were among the early pioneers in your present settlement, and were mighty factors in formulating the system of laws and institutions now prevailing in these states. It is quite evident from the character of these ancestors the quality of this stock was by no means of an ordinary character.

Their facing the storms of the Atlantic in reaching the inhospitable shores of New England, and then migrating to the New Jersey wilderness, experiencing the inconveniences of a civilization that was rustic in its character, clearing their timber from their lands for the purpose of making homes for themselves and contending against superior forces with their mother country for their independence, and then again immigrating to the great West in laying the foundation for a mighty republic, is quite conclusive evidence that the material of which these ancestors, and our own immediate parents were made, was of a quality from which we might expect such extraordinary results in developing such a country as these States of which we are citizens.

Upon such a stock, the future hopes of the Republic may always rely for its aid in the darkest hour of its necessity.

In the civil controversies of the times our people have always given much attention to the great questions of the day. To the discussion of the subject of slavery, few gave such close observation as Lewis and Arthur Tappan, whose names were conspicuous in times of such agitations, until the institution was ultimately overthrown by the War of the Rebellion.

There are many of you present of our stock who can testify how well you have fought in upholding the Union and maintaining the Republic intact, as it was left by our fathers, and many of our relatives sacrificed their lives upon the altar of their country following the noble example set by our ancestors.

Thus it is we feel proud in relating these incidents of family history. But we cannot stop here. Your collateral kindred of this family have been represented in the United States Senate and House of Representatives. Two have sat upon the Supreme Court bench, one in the State of New York and the other in Ohio. Your universities have been represented by its Chancellor and Professors. The legal and ministerial professions are not without their representatives. Our agriculturalists have been particularly distinguished through all the generations of their mortal existence, and the mechanic and tradesman have shown skill and prosperity in all their avocations.

Such examples of character should stimulate us to greater deeds in advancing a higher civilization as our generations become more enlightened than their predecessors.

Whatever our ancestors have done toward advancing our civil liberties, it was no more than they ought to have done; it was a duty that they owed to themselves, their children, their country, and to the generations yet unborn.

We have claimed that we have done no more than we ought to have accomplished, and we could not have brought these bright pages in our American history without the co-operation of our fellow-citizens. Under all circumstances, we are not individually independent, but dependent on Superior Power and Wisdom in all conditions on life. We have tried to prove to you in the lesson of the hour how much we are dependent upon each other,—the citizen upon the government, and the nation upon the citizen. We need each other's aid and co-operation under all circumstances. The purposes of these gatherings are not merely social and fraternal, but to advise with one another, in elevating the standard of our moral characters, in promoting an interest in our families whereby they may become of greater influence in the communities where they reside, in elevating the standard of character all around them. These are the motives that ought to prompt us in all the relations of life, in becoming more useful and fraternal. We may thus learn the three great cardinal principles in the organic structure of society.

1st. Sound constitutional health.

2d. Mental and spiritual faculties properly trained.

3d. That all should be educated in the science of government.

The price for the perpetuity of our institutions is virtue, sound morality, freedom and eternal vigilance.

ABRAHAM TOPPAN'S WILL

In the Name of God, Amen.

I, Abraham Toppan, of Newbury in the County of Essex being through mercie at present in good health and of sound memory, and understanding, blessed be God, doe make this, my last will and testament, in manner following:

First, I commit my soul both in life and death, in the hands of Almighty God, my most merciful Creator, through the merits & mediation of Jesus Christ, my alone Saviour and ever blessed Redeemer, through the power and presence of his holy and good spirit, and my body to the earth whence its original was taken, to be decently buried by my executors hereinafter named, in hope of a happy resurrection in the great day of the man Christ Jesus, to whom be glory forever, amen. And for the good things of this world which it hath pleased God to commit to my care & management during my pilgrimage in the present life, I doe as much as in me lieth, give and dispose as followeth:

First, whereas by a certain agreement or covenant in writing, bearing date the 30th of July 1661, I have granted to my son Peter Toppan one half or moiety of the home lott consisting of 26 acres of orchard, plowing, and pasture land, with the one half of all my other land, dividend, meadow and marsh in Newbury, aforesaid with the clear half of all liberties, privileges, and appurtenances to the same belonging with half of the barn and outhouses as in the said covenant is expressed, wherein mention also is made of his having the other half after my own and my wife's decease in considerations therein provided and performed; yet forasmuch as my son Jacob, is shortly by God's permission to enter marriage with Hannah, the daughter of Henry and Jane Sewall, and to live in the house with myself and my wife and that my son Peter is through God's blessings on his labours and the estate he received from me and raised betwixt us, otherwise well provided of housing and otherwise, my full mind and desire is that my son Peter be content to let fall his claime unto the other, the half part of the houses, land, and others the premises before expressed mentioned in said covenant to the end my son Jacob may inherit the same, and in case my son Peter be willing to answer my desire, I then give and bequeath unto him the sum of £ 20 payable in 12 months by my son Jacob in corne or neate cattle not exceeding 7 years old, or over, both at price current, but if my son Peter shall refuse to grant my desire herein, then my will and mind is as hereafter expressed—

First, that the legacy of £ 20, payable unto him by my son Jacob be voyd, and as if it had never been mentioned—

Secondly, that my son Peter shall pay unto my son Jacob his heirs or assigns the full price which the sayd half house, lot, and all other the premises before and in the aforesaid covenant mentioned shall amount unto within £ 10, as they shall be valued at by indifferent and experienced men with respect to the station, situation, and qualities of the said housing, and lands, and other the premises aforesaid, the appraisers to be appointed by Stephen Greenleaf, Sen., and John Webster, Sen., or the survivor of them.

Thirdly, my will and mind is that the foresaid payment to my son Jacob to be made within six months after my own and my wife's decease one third part in merchantable wheat sound and well dressed, and one third part in neat cattle not exceeding seven years old, and the sayd wheat, barley and cattle at money rates or prices.

These things I conceive just and equal, having done for my son Peter beyond what I have done or can doe, in proportion for the rest of my children, and some other considerations respecting my son Jacob, who is now to match with one who hath a considerable sum or estate, and the good service by him done for the benefit of my whole family, and more especially in my elder years; and it is my will and mind that in case of non-payment as aforesaid, unto my son Jacob, his heirs, and assigns, that the same home lott and all other premises aforementioned, shall be the proper inheritance of my son Jacob and Hannah, his wife, and the heirs of their two bodies, lawfully to be begotten betwixt them, their heirs and assigns forever; and for the want of such issue at the decease of my said son Jacob, and Hannah, his wife, I give and bequeath the said home lott and all the other premises aforesaid unto my sons Abraham, Isaac, and John Toppan, equally to be distributed among them or the survivors of them, their heirs and assigns forever. Also I give and bequeath unto my son Jacob, my hay-lot at Plum Island, which I purchased of Richard Dummer, sometime the lot of David Wheeler.

Item, I give unto my sons Abraham, Isaac, and John £ 10 apiece, and to my son-in-law Samuel Mighill and his wife, to be paid by my son Jacob in 12 months' time after my decease, and to my grandchildren Elizabeth £ 20, and to Peter and Samuel, £ 10 apiece, payable also in 12 months after my decease, and for the better encouragement of my said son Jacob, and Hannah, his wife, I hereby promise and grant unto my sayd son Jacob, and his wife Hannah, equal use, benefit and advantage of my housing, land, appurtenances and privileges, household goods, and stocks of cattle of all sorts, equal with myself and wife during our lifes, and after our decease the whole, not formerly bequeathed in this, my will, excepting as shall out of my said stock and other estate be by me disposed of in my lifetime unto my other children, not exceeding £ 75 in the whole, and for the sure performance of this, my last will and testament irrevocable, I do constitute and appoint my beloved wife Susanna, and my son Jacob, my executors, or the survivor of them to be sole executor, and my Christian friends Archelaus Woodman, Tristrâm Coffin, overseers thereof, to whom I give 5 shillings apiece, and, in case of any difference arising betwixt my sons Peter and Jacob, or any other of my children respecting this my will, it is my will and mind that it be determined by my overseers before mentioned.

Witness my hand and seal the 20 day of June, 1670.

Abraham Toppan

Signed, sealed and delivered, in presence of Mary Lunt, Joseph Hills, Henry Sewall.

Also before the signing hereof, it is declared that £ 50 of the £ 75 referred to in this my last will, is for my son John, in case he lives to the full age of 21 years, if not £ 25 of it I give to Abraham and Isaac, also a feather bed and furniture belonging to my sons after my own and my wife's decease.

THE TOPPANS AND TAPPANS

By A. J. Philpott, Night Editor of the Boston Globe

In Toppan's Lane, Newburyport, Mass., is one of the oldest and quaintest houses in New England, built in 1670, and because of its antiquity, regarded almost as a shrine by the numerous descendants of one of the great old Puritan pioneers, Abraham Toppan—who came to the Massachusetts Bay Colony from Yarmouth, England, with his wife, two children, his wife's mother and a servant, and was admitted into the township of Newbury, October 16, 1637, when he was "licensed by John Endicott, Esq., to live in this jurisdiction," after having "promised under his hand to be subject to any lawful order that shall be made by the towne."

Abraham Toppan was a descendant of one of the men who came to England with William the Conqueror, and settled in Yorkshire. The first authentic records of the family date back to 1403, to John Topham of Pately Bridge, in the West Riding of Yorkshire. The family coat-of-arms may be seen in the rooms of the Historical Society of Newburyport.

In England the name was spelled Topham, Tophan, Toppan and Tappan. In America the name is spelled in two ways—Toppan and Tappan. There was no particular reason for the change in spelling. Some seemed to fancy one spelling and others the other.

In this country the change began in the fourth generation from Toppan to Tappan. Even in the present generation, among the descendants of Jacob Toppan who live in Toppan's Lane, one of the men, Edward, who lived in the West for a time, spelled his name Tappan, while all of his brothers and sisters spelled their names Toppan.

Abraham Toppan, the first settler, had seven children, two of whom were born in England, and from these seven there has flowed a heritage of descendants that are scattered all over the country and even into Central America, under the names of Toppan and Tappan on the male side, under a great variety of old New England names on the female side—men and women who have contributed to the upbuilding of the Nation as statesmen, soldiers, merchants, farmers, educators, preachers, physicians, philanthropists, judges and lawyers—in fact in pretty much every walk of life.

But the thousands of Toppans and Tappans in this country today are all descended from that first Puritan settler with the patriarchal name—Abraham Toppan. And they began to radiate in their migrations, North, South and West, with the very first generation.

The children of Abraham Toppan were Peter, Elizabeth, Abraham, Jacob, Susanna, John and Isaac—five sons and two daughters. The descendants of the oldest child, Dr. Peter Toppan, numbered more than 100 in the second generation.

The descendants of Jacob were equally numerous, and from the youngest son, Isaac, who migrated to New Jersey with his brother, Abraham, there have descended most of the Tappans and Toppans that drifted into New York, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana and the Middle and Far West.

It has been a forceful and virile family from the beginning and among its members have been some sturdy and typical American characters.

Twenty-two descendants of the male line have graduated from Harvard—12 Tappans and 10 Toppans—and on the rolls of Dartmouth and other famous American colleges, including those of the Middle West, may be found plenty of Toppans and Tappans.

Besides the quaint old house on Toppan's Lane, which was built for Jacob Toppan, the fourth child of Abraham Toppan, when he married Hannah Sewall, sister of the famous Judge Sewall, there is another old Toppan house in Newburyport, or rather in Newbury, which is equally venerated by the descendants of Abraham Toppan.

It is the house of Dr. Peter Toppan, oldest of the seven children of Abraham, and was built in 1697. It is located on High Street, just across the line in Newbury, near the corner of Marlboro Street, and opposite the old Illsley Tavern, which was built about the same date.

On that splendid old High Street, which was at one time the turnpike to Portsmouth, this venerable house that was built by Dr. Peter Toppan, still stands, gambrel roofed, in all of its ancient dignity and character, a precious historical landmark.

It is even more noticeable than the old house on Toppan's Lane, for it remains practically unchanged in its outline, while the house of Jacob has been enshrined and beautified by his descendants, although it is the same house that Jacob Toppan took his young bride into in 1670.

It is occupied by one of the descendants of Jacob Toppan—Roland W. Toppan—but it has been surrounded by improvements which time made necessary, while much of the ancient character and dignity of the place, especially inside, have been preserved.

The old brick fire-place with its ovens is now the central feature of the living room and from its side there swings an ancient iron crane, but Jacob and Hannah would feel a little embarrassed and out of place among the rich furnishings of this room today, and they would wonder at the front porch with its classic columns, the pergolas in the garden and the beautiful flower gardens that surround the house, to say nothing of the stable, the garage, the electric lights, the telephone in the entry and many other things that bring the ancient homestead up to date.

Still that fine old fire-place is just the same as when Hannah baked bread in the ovens; the rough, oak beam over it is the same and the great oak beams on the ceiling of the low studded room are the same as Jacob and Hannah knew, and the rooms upstairs would not look wholly unfamiliar to them.

Practically all of the essential characteristics of the old homestead have been preserved with loving thoughtfulness and care by the descendants of Jacob and Hannah Toppan, and have been simply enshrined and preserved in modern surroundings that partake a good deal of the past.

But somehow that house which was built by Dr. Peter Toppan, although not so old by 28 years as the house of Jacob, looks more impressive; and it must have been in its day very much of a mansion. Dr. Peter was the oldest child and was clearly a man of force and influence in the community in his day, and a man of considerable initiative, for besides being a physician of standing he was one of the most enterprising farmers of Newbury and one of those who "traded at sea." He belonged to one of the five companies into which the sheep owners of Newbury were divided, and was the third largest owner, having 80 sheep. He died November 3, 1707, from the effects of a fall.

As the oldest male child he was probably regarded as the head of the family, after his father, as was the English custom under the law of entail, and therefore he came earlier into a position of responsibility than the other members of the family.

As a physician he was naturally a man of considerable standing in the community in which he lived and it is not surprising that he should have built in his declining years what was then probably the finest private residence in Newbury.

Dr. Peter Toppan had six children and of these, Samuel, the third son, who married Abigail, daughter of the famous preacher, Rev. Michael Wigglesworth, of Malden, lived and died in the old High Street mansion, after which it evidently passed out of the ownership of the family until Wigglesworth Toppan, the second son of Samuel, purchased it along toward the end of his life and died there in 1781.

He was a bachelor and spent the early part of his life at York, Me. Presumably the old mansion then passed to one of his eight brothers and sisters or some member of their families.

The fourth son of Samuel Toppan was Rev. Benjamin Tappan who graduated from Harvard College in 1742. He was pastor of the Congregational church at Manchester, Mass., for 45 years. He married Elizabeth, eldest daughter of Deacon David Marsh, of Haverhill, and they had 12 children, the eldest of whom—Benjamin Tappan—married a grandniece of Benjamin Franklin, "a woman of great intelligence and remarkable piety."

They had 11 children, some of whom grew to be among the most famous of the Toppans and Tappans—for it was about this time that the name began to be spelled both ways.

Their second child, Benjamin Tappan, was a famous judge and United States Senator from Ohio. Their third child, Rebecca, married Col. William Edwards, who commanded a regiment of artillery in 1813 at South Boston for the protection of the seaboard.

This was during the war with England which began in 1812. Their sixth child, John Tappan, was sent in 1843 by the United States government, a delegate to the International Peace convention in London. The eighth child, Arthur Tappan, became one of New York's greatest dry goods merchants, having as a partner his brother, Lewis Tappan, the ninth child. Arthur married Frances, daughter of Col. Edward Antill and great-granddaughter of Gov. Morris of New Jersey.

Arthur was a very wealthy man and gave freely to the cause of abolition and to religious, patriotic and philanthropic work. He helped William Lloyd Garrison, and at one time, by paying a heavy fine, freed the great abolitionist from the Baltimore jail.

He was the first president of the Antislavery Society. He endowed Lane Seminary at Cincinnati; endowed a chair at Auburn Theological Seminary and built Tappan Hall at Oberlin College, Ohio, the first college in America to admit women students. He paid the tuition of 100 divinity students for four years at Yale College.

Lewis Tappan, partner of Arthur, and ninth child of Benjamin Tappan, was also a philanthropist and antislavery advocate. He was one of the founders of the American Missionary Association.

So it will be seen that the issue of Dr. Peter Toppan who built the old mansion in High Street, has scattered far and wide over the country. Only a few of them have been mentioned.

Another famous branch of the family flowed from Rev. Christopher Toppan, the youngest son of Dr. Peter Toppan. He graduated from Harvard in 1691 and became pastor of the First Church in Newbury. Two of his sons also graduated from Harvard, and one of these, Bezaleel Toppan, was one of the proprietors of Concord, N. H., where he preached the first sermon under a tree.

Christopher Toppan, the eldest son of Rev. Christopher Toppan, married and settled in New Hampshire, and his son, Christopher, who was born in Exeter, N. H., in 1725, was one of the original proprietors of Sandwich, N. H., whither he removed from Hampton, N. H., in 1768 and built a house which stands and which is owned by one of his descendants. Among his descendants are Samuel A. Tappan of North Woodstock, deceased, Winthrop H. Tappan, of Sandwich, N. H., Daniel L. Tappan, of Arlington, Mass., George H. Tappan, of Rochester, N. H., and Walter Scott Tappan, who is a respected dealer in general merchandise and lumber in the town of Sandwich, N. H. They are sons of Daniel Tappan, of Sandwich, N. H., who married twice and had 15 children. The descendants of Christopher Toppan in New Hampshire have spread far and wide over the country and are all descendants of Dr. Peter Toppan.

There are probably more of the descendants of Jacob Toppan in Newburyport than any of the other children of Abraham Toppan, the first settler.

On Toppan's Lane, beside the ancient homestead occupied by Roland W. Toppan and his family, the fourth house on the right side from High Street, there is on the opposite side a beautiful old house, built by Edward Toppan, a descendant of Jacob, in 1820. This house is now occupied by three of his daughters, Susan, Serena and Margaret, sisters of Roland W. Toppan, who occupies the old homestead.

Their father was the great-great-grandson of Jacob Toppan. The original deeds of the property on the lane to Jacob Toppan are in the rooms of the Newburyport Historical Society. These deeds were made out June 21, 1670, when Jacob married Hannah Sewall and moved into the house which was the only house on the lane for 115 years.

In 1785 Stephen Toppan, great-grandson of Jacob Toppan, built the second house on the lane in which Mrs. Little now lives. A third house built by Stephen on the corner of High Street has been replaced by a modern residence, which has something of the flavor of the old time in its architecture besides much that is up to date. Arthur Moody, another member of the family owned the third house on the lane, a much more modern house than the others.

The old Toppan's Lane is still very much the same old lane it has always been from the time when it was first opened from High Street to the pasture lands of Newbury. There is still very much of the oldtime spirit of quiet and restfulness about it and about the quaint old houses in which the descendants of Jacob Toppan live.
